We value and respect your privacy at St Helens Now.

St Helens Now only collect the minimum amount of information that is required to enjoy any particular section of our site, usually only an anonymous user name and an email address if you register. An IP address is recorded if you register. An IP address is not directly personally identifiable. Certainly on St Helens Now, we can't identify you by your IP address. It is always allocated to your Internet Service Provider.

No personally identifying information is collected on this website from anonymous, non-registered users.

If you register, you do not need to provide any personally identifying information on St Helens Now to use the website. Any information you do provide will be retained by St Helens Now and kept in the strictest confidence.

If you register and subsequently cancel your registration, all information will be automatically deleted. We do not retain any information for cancelled registrations.

We do not spam. We do not sell, trade or rent any information you give us to any third party, including any partners we are associated with.

There is some legal blurb to protect us and you. Check it out at Terms of Use. It is there for your protection.

I have worked very hard on this website in terms of privacy and security and you will not come to any harm here on St Helens Now.

We will always keep this Policy updated and if there are any changes they will appear here. One of the best ways to be kept informed of any changes is to register with the site and mark this page as a 'Notification'. You will then be automatically made aware of any changes.

We do provide external links to other web sites and we are not responsible for any of their contents. Although we thoroughly check links for integrity and privacy, you must use external web sites at your own risk.
